Getting Started with Your CMI AI Account

Oct 21, 2026 · @Jeremy Waters

Setup takes about 15 minutes and you do it once. When you're done, your AI can see your email, calendar, files, and Slack and brief you each morning.

Before You Start

- Your @constructedmatter.com Google login
- Your Slack login
- A computer, plus your phone for the mobile app
- The invite email from your admin

Setup Steps

- [ ] 1. Accept the invite. Open the invite email and sign in with your @constructedmatter.com Google account. Never use a personal account.
- [ ] 2. Install the apps. Open it in your web browser and install the mobile app. Sign in to both with the same company account.
- [ ] 3. Connect Gmail and Calendar. Go to Settings, then Connectors (or Apps). Choose Google, sign in, and allow access.
- [ ] 4. Connect Google Drive. Same place. This lets it read project files and templates.
- [ ] 5. Connect Slack. Same place. Sign in to the CMI Slack workspace and allow access.
- [ ] 6. Open the shared CMI project. It holds our SOPs, templates, and the active job list.
- [ ] 7. Test it. Ask: "What's on my calendar today and which emails need a reply?" If it answers, you're set.

Ground Rules

- Use it for CMI work only.
- AI drafts, you decide. Check anything before it goes to a client or sub.
- Official info (logs, decisions, SOPs) goes in the CMI web app, not just a chat.
- Never paste bank details, SSNs, or passwords into a chat.

Next: use the Morning Briefing prompt card below tomorrow morning.

Morning Briefing Prompt Card

Each morning, open your AI account and paste this:

Give me my briefing for today: my meetings, emails and Slack messages waiting on me, my open follow-ups, what I'm waiting on from clients, subs, or teammates, and deadlines this week. Put anything urgent first.

Follow-ups to dig in

- "Which of these emails need a reply today?"
- "Draft a reply to [name] about [topic]."
- "What's happening on [job name] this week?"
- "What am I waiting on from subs?"
- "Summarize the #[channel] Slack channel since yesterday."

End of day

- "What did I commit to today that isn't on my list yet?"
- "Turn my briefing into a short post for #daily-briefings."

Tips: name the job or person to get sharper answers, ask follow-ups instead of starting over, and check before acting on anything.
